THE FOSTER FAMILY.

THE PEDIGREE AND DESCENDANTS OF WILLIAM, SON OF REGINALD FOSTER, OF IPSWICH, MASSACHUSETTS.

IN Vol. I., p. 352, of the Historical and Genealogical Register, will be found a brief notice of REGINALD FOSTER, of Ipswich, and the pedigree of his son Abraham. There has also been published for private distribution, by Dr. Edward J. Forster, of Charlestown, Mass., "The Pedigree and Descendants of JACOB FORSTER, Senior, of Charlestown," who was a descendant of Reginald Foster, Jr., of Ipswich; and yet another line has been distinctly filled, in manuscript, through JACOB, the youngest son of Reginald, from whom descended Archibald Foster, Esq., formerly cashier of Granite Bank, Portuguese and Brazilian Vice-Consul, Boston. The following article gives the pedigree and descendants of WILLIAM, fourth son of Reginald.

FIRST GENERATION.

REGINALD FOSTER,¹ as is generally accredited, was born in Exeter, County of Devon, England, and a descendant of an ancient and respectable family of that city, which was identified with those families in the northern counties of England, who were known by the name of Forster,* and had distinguished themselves in their successful achievements against their Scottish foes, and are honorably mentioned in the “Lay of the Last Minstrel,” and “Marmion.” He came to America in one of the vessels embargoed by King Charles I., accompanied by his wife, Judith, five sons and two daughters, and settled in Ipswich, Mass., about the year 1638, and was one of the earliest inhabitants of that town. He lived near the “East Bridge,” which stood where the stone bridge now is. It is supposed that the remains of what is known as the “old Foster house,” may have been the site of his residence, and this seems consistent with the fact, that under date of April 6, 1641, there was “granted to Reginald Foster, eight acres of meadow in the west meadow, if any remain there ungranted, in consideration of a little hovel that stood at the new bridge, which was taken away for the accomodating of the passage there." And "4th 11 mo., 1646," he with others "promise carting voluntary toward the East Bridge beside the rate a day work a piece."

* “In the earlier records we find the name spelt indifferently Foster and Forster,—the former spelling being the more common. The “r” has now been entirely dropped, except by the descendants of Jacob Forster, Sen., of Charlestown, Mass., who was the first, I believe, to write the name always in the same manner.”—Edward Jacob Forster, M.D.

December 19, 1645, he subscribes with others his proportion of 3^s, to make up the sum of £24 7^s, "to pay their leader Maior Dennison," who then commanded the military forces of Essex and Norfolk counties, and was for many years Major General of the colony. This year, a law was passed requiring the "youth from ten to sixteen years to be exercised with small guns, half-pikes, bows and arrows;" and that "every town is to have a guard set a half hour after sunset, to consist of a pikeman and musketeer, and to prepare for any sudden attack from the Indians." (Felt.)

March 8, 1647-8, he bought of Ralph Dix, Ipswich, "all his six acre lott he" (Dix) "bought of Wm. White," (same day) "lying in the common field on the north side of the river, bounded on land of Thomas Smyth, Humphrey Broadstreet and Robert Lord."

In 1652, there was "Granted Thomas Clark and Reginal Foster, that when they shall have cut through a passage from this river into Chebacco River, of ten feet wide and soc deepe as a lighter may pass through laden, and to make a ford and footebridge over, that then the town have given unto them £10 towards said passage." (Ipswich Town Records.)

March 11, 1657-8, he bought for £50, of Roger Preston, his dwelling house, house lot, barn and other buildings. Also his other house lot, with gardens, orchards, &c., which he, the said Preston, bought of Robert Wallis, situated on the North side of the river. Also one planting lot of three acres, on the north side of Town hill, bounded on land of widow Rose Whipple, Andrew Hodges, John Morse and Thomas Treadwell.

He was witness to the will of Wm. Averill, of Ipswich, June 3, 1652, and an appraiser to the estate of Robert Roberts, September 29, 1663. His name is variously written in an abbreviated form, viz. :—Renald, Regnold, Rejnald, Ringdell, Reginold, and as signed sometimes by himself, Reinold. It is supposed by some that he is the sole progenitor of the Fosters of America. There is an account of a William Foster, who was of Ipswich as early as 1635, and had land granted him that year, and is said to have emigrated to this country from England in 1634, in the ship Hercules. In November, 1637, he was disarmed for entertaining the peculiar views and doctrines of Wheelwright and Ann Hutchinson, and warned to depart from the jurisdiction before the sitting of the General Court in March following. A William Foster, living in 1652 at Marblehead, was threatened, by court, with a fine of £20, for “living heare and his wife in England,” and warned to “go to her before the end of the 7th mo., 1652.” [Co. Ct. Rec.] Andrew Foster, an early settler of Andover, who died May 7, 1685, at the very advanced age of 106 years, appears in no way identified with the Fosters of Ipswich, and but little of importance is known pertaining to his personal history.

The will of Reginald was made April 30, 1680; a codicil attached, signed March 5, 1680-1, and approved June 9, 1681. He appears to have been a large owner at Plum and Hog Islands; and among his bequests, he gives to his son William “my six acres of land I had of Thomas Smith, and six acres of marsh at Hog Island.” He also mentions his wife Sarah, sons Abraham, Renold, Isaac, Jacob, and daughters Sarah, wife of Wm. Story, Mary, wife of Francis Peabody, and grandchild, Hannah Story. He left an estate valued at £744 16^s, including real estate at £671. Inventory taken May 30, 1681, by John Whipple and Simon Stace.

Reginald was twice married. First, to Judith —, in England, who died in Ipswich, October, 1664; second, September, 1665, to Sarah Martin, of Ipswich [for these two facts see Ipswich Records], who, after her husband's decease, married, September 21, 1682, William White, of Haverhill, whose first wife Mary died Feb. 22, 1681.

SECOND GENERATION.

WILLIAM,² son of Reginald (1), born in England, 1633. He made his will Sept. 3, 1711, when 78 years of age (as stated in his will), which was proved June 15, 1713. He was a yeoman, and removed to Rowley, where he was received as an inhabitant in 1661, and settled in that section of the town known as Rowley Village, and afterwards incorporated under the name of Boxford. Before his removal, he purchased of Joseph Jewett, of Rowley, for £11 13^s 4^d, a seventy-second part of the village lands in said town; but Mr. Jewett died before he gave him a deed of it, and he afterwards received one from the executors, bearing date of May 30, 1661, witnessed by Thomas Dorman, Francis Peabody and Gershom Lambert. About the year 1666-7 the village lands were laid out by John Pickard and Ezekiel Northend. Of this land, William Foster, Francis Peabody (who married Mary, the sister of said William), Joseph Bixbie and Abraham Reddington, received 800 acres, bounded north by land of Messrs. Dorman, Cummins and Stiles, west by Andover line, south by Wade's brook, &c., and east by various other lots. This grant consisted of upland, meadow and swamp. It is recorded in the Essex Registry of Deeds, under date of Feb. 27, 1706-7, that he gave his son Samuel one-half of his right in said land, describing the same bounds and parties to whom it was laid out.

April 3, 1695, he, with his sons William and Jonathan, and John Kimball, all of Boxford, bought 300 acres of land of Robert Eames, “lying between Five Mile Pond and Moses Tyler’s house, on both sides of Ipswich road.” Aug. 25, 1710, he gave to his “son David, of Haverhill, all that right which falleth to us in lands, orchards, &c., which our Hon’d Father Wm. Jackson, formerly of Rowley, dec’d, did give to his son John Jackson and John Jackson’s son John, William Jackson’s grand-son, and in case his grand-son John died childless, then . . . the estate mentioned in said deed . . . to return to our father’s three daughters or their children. Wm. Jackson’s grandson John dying childless, said lands are divided among said daughters, viz.: Elizabeth How, Mary Foster my wife, and Deborah Trumbull; which land in my right (Mr. Jackson’s deed bearing date in Rowley, Dec. 6, 1680), I give to my son David.”

Dec. 6, 1680, Mr. Jackson, aforementioned, gave his daughter Mary Foster, out of his estate, two acres of meadow in the common field, one ox and a heifer, all of the value of £11, and “20^s of which is for her daughter’s paines with me and my wife;” or, in other words, for the great care and comfort she had bestowed upon them in their old age, while abiding under their roof. Mr. Jackson died May 1, 1688.

Mr. Foster seems to have been one of the leading men in the town of Rowley, holding many offices of trust, and frequently serving on committees in matters of importance, with great acceptance. In 1675 he, with Joseph Peabody and John Kimball, were appointed collectors of taxes. In 1677 and 1680 he and John Peabody were appointed on part of the village to enforce the strict observance of the Sabbath, "and to have the special inspection of those families nearest their house on either side of them," according to the provisions of a law of the General Court, passed May 23, 1677.

Up to the year 1685, Rowley Village had been subject to the control and government of the town proper, which was contrary to the expectations of the settlers when the Village lands were allotted them, who considered themselves "free from any engagement to the town of Rowley else we had not purchased it." According to the records, the Village, in 1673, was composed of but sixteen families, and living nearly nine miles distant from the town, and near to the bounds of Topsfield. In 1685, they had increased to forty families, and the lands, containing about eighteen thousand acres, they thought “ would comfortabully setuate one hundred families ;” and considering the distance from town, and the general difficulties under which they continually labored in their governmental affairs, and other matters owing to their remote situation, they conceived the importance of petitioning the General Court for leave to settle a minister and grant them “ township prevelig, that so wee might the more comfortably cary on so needfull a work, for the betor edication of our children that cannot gooe fouer mieles to meting.” [To Topsfield]. This petition was signed by “ Abraham Reddington, Sen., Joseph Bixbee, Sen., Samuel Buswell, Sen., William Foster and John Peabody.” Dated “ 27 : 3 mo. 1685.” The petition was granted June 5, 1685, “ Provided it may be with the consent of the Selectmen of Rowley,” and which finally resulted in the incorporation of the town of Boxford ; for shortly after the above grant, two committees were appointed, one on part of Rowley Village (one of whom was Mr. Foster) and the other on part of Rowley, who met together July 7, 1685, and agreed upon “ a parting line betwixt the town of Rowley and the village,” that all the common undivided village land except the minister’s farm, shall belong to Rowley, and “ that the inhabitants shall be free from all rates to the town, excepting 20^s in silver, to be paid Joseph

Bixbee, Sen., John Peabody, William Foster, Samuel Symonds and Moses Tyler, yearly . . . while [or until] they have an orthodox minister settled in the village."

In his will, before referred to, Mr. Foster gives his five sons, Jonathan, William, Timothy, Samuel and David, all his salt marsh he had of his father Foster, lying in Ipswich, which is to be enjoyed by his wife Mary and son Joseph during her widowhood. Appoints sons Jonathan and Samuel executors.

While of Ipswich, he married, May 15, 1661, Mary, daughter of William and Joanna Jackson, of Rowley, born Feb. 8, 1639. Mr. Jackson lived on Bradford street, where, in 1643, a house lot, containing one acre and a half, was laid out to him not far from the meeting-house.

THIRD GENERATION.

WILLIAM,³ son of William,² born in Rowley village (afterwards Boxford), 1670, and removed to Andover, Mass., about 1697-8, where he died Aug. 29, 1755, in his 86th year. He left a will, made Feb. 9, 1754, proved Sept. 8, 1755, wherein he mentions his wife Margaret, daughters Sarah (Abbot), Mary (Abbot), Hannah (Lovejoy), grand-daughter Lydia (Blunt), son Asa, to whom he gives £13 6^s 8^d, his "weaver's loom," a piece of land near Billerica line, and all his right at Wood hill; son John, to whom he gives all the remaining land he bought of Hephzibah Frye, and nine acres in Marble's meadow; grand-son Daniel, son of son Asa, to whom he gives his "Great Bible."

Sept. 3, 1697, while of Boxford, he bought of William and Eleanor Chandler, of Andover, their homestead of sixty acres, consisting of house, barn, orchard, upland and swamp, lying in Andover; and it must have been soon after this date that he removed there, for we find Nov. 21, 1699, that William Foster, of Andover, weaver, bought of John Russ, one-half of his upper meadow, and afterwards, June 5, 1711, he bought of Stephen Osgood, Andover, and Hooker Osgood, of Lancaster, all their rights and proprietorship in Andover, derived by heirship from their father Stephen Osgood, of Andover. April 3, 1695, before his removal, he, with his father William, brother Jonathan and John Kimbail, all of Boxford, bought of Robert and Bethiah Eames, 300 acres of land, "between five mile pond and Moses Tyler's house on both sides of Ipswich road."

The following item appears in the Registry of Deeds for Essex County, book 43, p. 279: ". . . we Jonathan Foster, Timothy Foster and Samuel Foster of Boxford, William Foster of Andover, David Foster of Haverhill, Mary Kilburn and John Platts," (who married Judith, daughter of William, Sen., of Boxford), "Theophilus Rix and Hannah Rix his wife, of Wenham . . . for . . . the sum of thirty pounds . . . paid . . . by John Perkins of Andover . . . have sold . . . said John Perkins, his heirs, &c. a certain piece . . . of meadow lying in Andover and Salem, containing by estimation five acres . . . " Feb. 11, 1723-4. It will be seen by the family record that the foregoing are all children and sons-in-law of said William, Sen., of Boxford.

Feb. 1, 1714-15. "William Foster, Andover, weaver," bought of John Lovejoy 50 acres of upland in Andover, bounded on John Fry, and meadow, on Stephen Barnard, and also on Pond meadow. Also one right in common land. Jan. 20, 1715-16, he buys of Hephzibah Frye "30 acres, a part of the great division which said Frye's grandfather, John Frie, gave to her father, Benjamin Frie, dec^d." In this deed he is styled "weaver," his identity being preserved from the fact of a bequest made to his son Asa of his "weaver's loom," before referred to. Jan. 15, 1717-18, he and Christopher and Ebenczer Lovejoy bought of James Frye, of Andover, eight acres of land on the west side of Shawshine river. Dec. 23, 1729, he sells to his son John Foster several parcels of land, bounded on John Dane, Marble's meadow, and Crane Meadow Dam. Dec. 20, 1731, he sold to Moses Foster, carpenter, a ten rods right in Capt. Stevens's Dam at Deer Meadow; Robert Walker and Asa Foster, witnesses. Sept. 1, 1744, he gives to his son Asa, five tracts of land, including the homestead, and afterwards, June 3, 1746, he gave him thirty-five acres, bounded on Pond Meadow Dam, and the parsonage land.

Mr. Foster settled in South Andover, and was at first a member of the church at the North Parish, and was one of the thirty-five members who were subsequently dismissed to form and establish the South church, in 1711. He married, first, July 6, 169-, Sarah, daughter of John and Sarah Kimball, of Boxford, born Sept. 19, 1669, died Nov. 6, 1729, in her 61st year. He and his brother Capt. Asa were men of sound moral and intellectual attainments, and influence ; and, Oct. 21, 1765, they with others were appointed a committee to draw up instructions for the Representative of the town at General Court to enter a protest against the support of the Stamp Act, then in a state of agitation, as the inhabitants of Andover and other towns had already begun to experience, in a goodly measure, the harassing effects of such an unwelcome proceeding. March, 1768, the two brothers were appointed on another committee, to frame resolutions, "to induce the inhabitants to ignore extravagance, idleness and vice, and to promote manufactures, industry, economy and good morals in the town, and discountenance importation and the use of foreign superfluities," and the said committee to make themselves prominent in the moral enforcement of the foregoing suggestions, by their consistent example.
